

SECTION 17: BACKEND WEB DEVELOPMENT:

BACKEND WEB DEVELOPMENT EXPLAINED

HOME / MONEY & CAREER /

These Are the Hottest Jobs for 2018, According to LinkedIn

10. Full stack developer

- Average base salary: \$85,829
- Growth: 4.5X

Full stack web developers are software pros. They know the ins and outs of all applications and are usually hired to oversee front and back-end web development. Techie lingo aside, LinkedIn activity data says this career is on fire. About 4.5X more LinkedIn members list this as their profession now than five years ago. Even better, Glassdoor puts their average base salary at $85,829.

4. Web Architecture and Development Framework

Related Jobs: Web developer ($65,000), Full Stack Web Developer ($77,000)

Recommended Courses: Building Angular and Node Apps with Authentication, Creating Your First RESTful Spring Boot Microservice with JPA, React: Replacing Legacy Projects

10. Full Stack Developer

A Full-Stack Web Developer can work on both the front-end and back-end elements of an application. Rather than being an expert at every aspect of development, they will have a solid understanding at every level.

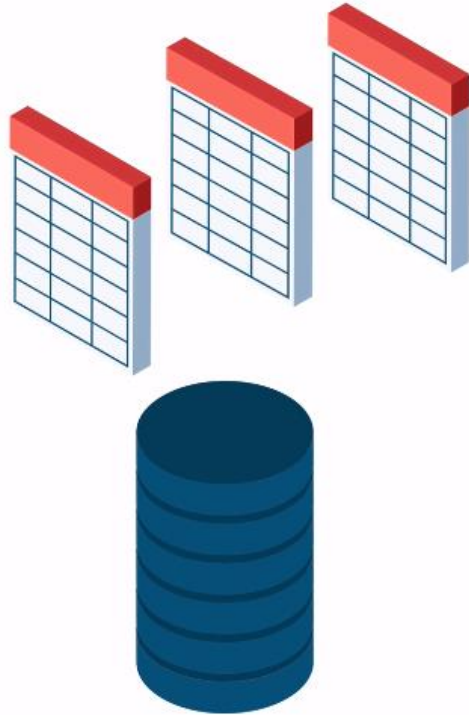

Permanent: £50,000 to £80,000 per annum

```
{
  name: "Angela",
  numberOfTickets: 1;
  email: angela@angela.com
}
```

Eventbrite

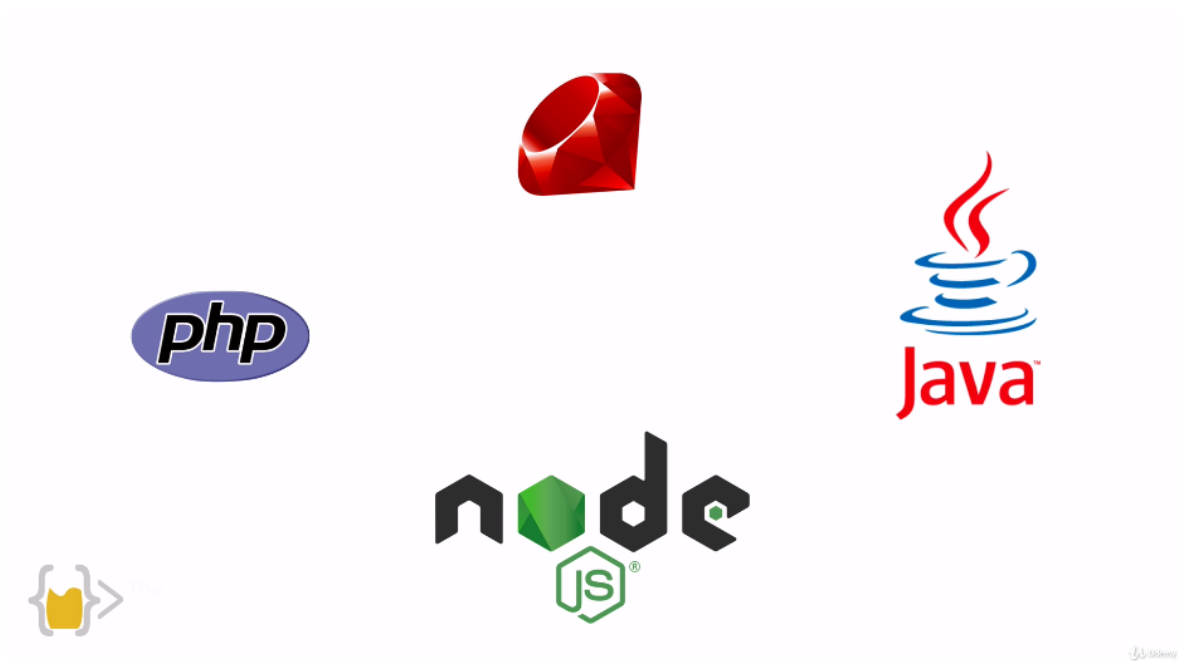

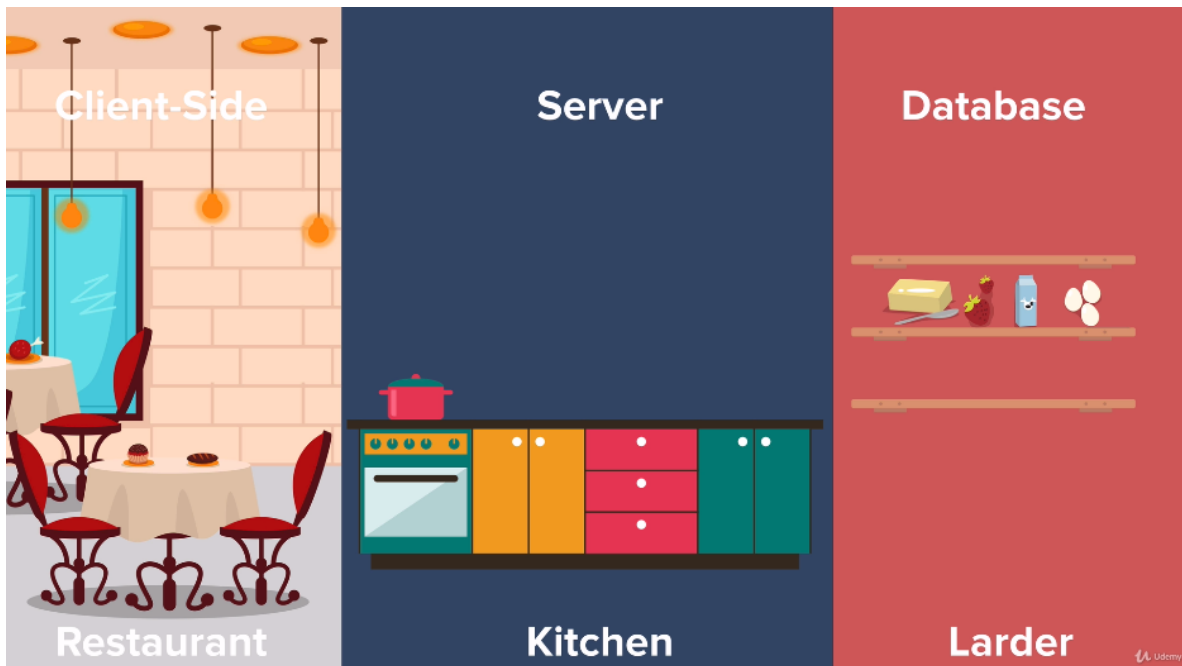

BROWSE EVENTSHELPANGELACREATE EVENT

Angela Yu

EDIT PROFILE

1UPCOMING EVENT0SAVED EVENTS0PAST EVENTS

The Hogarth Beer and Music Festival

REMEMBER: → Node JS runs on JavaScript.